AN APPEAL TO INDEPENDENT DEMOCRATS.

The excitement of the election being now over, we think it a reasonable time to invite some of our fellow-citizens to a dispassionate consideration of its results with a view to future political action. The present, we say, is the favorable and the only favorable time for this purpose, for if it be deferred later the facts will have faded from our memories and the excitement of a new election will be exerting its disturbing influence. The class of our friends whose attention we desire is that which has so far formed the strength of the Independent party, which has for some time appeared for support under the various titles of the Low Tax, Greenback, National Labor, Independent party; and we would, if possible, induce them to consider what purpose they expect to carry out by a continuance of their organization, and whether that purpose is likely to be attained by it, or, finally, by dissolving it, and being reconstituted by them as one of the parties of the country. We are not addressing the leaders of this party, those who run the machine; we well know that on their argument would be wasted. The State debt, the national currency—these are not the real purposes they are aiming at. Their real aim is simply to break up the Democratic party in this country, and the political measures they advocate are only used as a means to this end. If both these questions were disposed of it would have no tendency to reconcile them to the Democratic party, and it was quite against our judgment that efforts were made last summer to do so. The destruction of the Democratic party in Tennessee is not with them merely an end; it is the end that they are aiming at. To such men we do not address argument but defiance; we bid them do their worst, knowing well that, bidden or unbidden, they will do it. For private reasons of their own, for a failure of the party to recognize their distinguished merits, they have vowed vengeance against it and nothing will satisfy them but its destruction. With them, therefore, it is war. We ask no terms and we offer none. We address the followers of these men; we ask the attention of those who have no personal spite to carry out, who are not either unappreciated office-seekers or disguised Radicals, and we put our questions to them one by one.

First, then, what purpose are you aiming at? Is it a mere lavish issue of paper money than you are likely to get from the Democratic party? That is the avowed purpose of your organization, and there may be some among you with whom that is really the object pursued, who think that that result is to be attained by your efforts. We cannot argue the question here, and it would be a matter of interest to discuss it, if we were to undertake it. Fortunately it is not necessary for our present purpose that we should. If we will consider the results of the recent elections you will see that even the modified opposition to re-emption and the contraction occasioned by it which was offered by the regular Democratic party has so alarmed business men all over the country that it has lost thousands of votes to the party; and nowhere has this been so strikingly manifested as in Ohio, the nursery and headquarters of inflation. And yet this policy is denounced by your Greenbackers as insufficient—so insufficient that you can't vote for the party, but must form an organization to enforce much more extreme measures. Now let your common sense, if the Democratic party barely escaped defeat on the moderate measures which you despise, what would have been its position if it had gone to your extremes? The election of five more Republicans and five less Democrats would have placed the Republican party in control of the House of Representatives, and ten times five would have been easily elected on that supposition. How much nearer would you have been to the realization of your inflation doctrine? It would have given the Republican party the complete control of the financial policy of the nation and hard money would have been the order of the day, as in a great measure it will be even as the matter stands.

But don't think that the hard money policy would be the only result of such a change in the balance of parties. It was on the hard money cry that the Republicans have recovered so much ground and hope to recover more in 1880; but, though they are winning on that cry, it is not mainly for that purpose that they desire a return to hard money. No, the real object they are aiming at is the restitution of their dictatorial power in the South. It is a pity that Republican papers are not more read in this country than they are. If they were generally seen here it would do more to consolidate the Democratic party than all that the Democratic press can effect. Before the October elections the bloody shirt was the favorite topic of Radical orators and editors. Not only was hard money not talked of in their speeches and editorials, but the Republicans claimed credit as the original inflationists. Blaine himself expostulated playfully with the greenback, of which he claimed that the Radical party was the author, but his trump card was a denunciation of the President's Southern policy and the necessity of re-establishing the Republican party in the South by force, if necessary. On this programme they lost eight seats in Congress.

The Republican party never ignores facts; we do. Between the October and November elections their programme was entirely changed; the bloody shirt was discarded; full-fledged out of sight (not buried), there was no more flirting with inflation; Blaine and Hale, defeated in Maine, went to Pennsylvania and thence to Ohio, and talked hard money as hard as it could ring, and on this programme they won back the eight seats they had lost in October, and several more to boot. And now do they talk hard money? Very little of it. The cry is protection to the colored voter. The hard money cry is what they won by, but not what they won for. The outrage bill is started full blast; lies by the thousand are coined by informers of the Wells and Anderson class, and an army of U. S. Marshals and U. S. District Attorneys is put on duty to take up election abuses, and they are pretty plainly instructed that they must find them, and prove them too, or they will be superseded by more efficient Marshals and Attorneys. So instigated there is no doubt but that they will find them, and prove them too, at least to the satisfaction of the Federal Courts. And what then? Nothing worse during the present administration perhaps than a swarm of U. S. Marshals, but let Grant attain his third term with Blaine, Conkling and Hale in his Cabinet, and after the Marshals will follow the Federal soldier, and after him the carpet-bagger.

This, gentlemen Independents, is a result to which you can very largely contribute by persisting in dividing the Democratic party. Democratic party, and by haunting before business men your schemes of unlimited inflation and repudiation. You can effect no other result. Those doctrines of your party which you hold as distinguished from the regular Democratic party have been condemned by last November's vote throughout the nation; they will be condemned by hundreds of thousands more votes two years hence if still contended for by you. You have no choice but to vote with the regular Democratic party or to vote for the return of the carpet-bagger and the infamous regime under which we lived here prior to 1868.

The question is whether you are disposed to contribute to this result for the sake of the personal ambitions or the personal ambition of the men who have hitherto made use of you.

For a period of years, stopping somewhere short of the deluge, it has been the practice of the General Assembly of the good State of Tennessee to enact and repeal a dog law alternately, according as sheep or dogs obtained the balance of power in the body politic. It is the sheep's turn in the session now approaching, a dog law having been repealed at the last session after vast difficulties and an immense expenditure of legislative wisdom.

It is now the Representatives of the sheep interest have according to immemorial usage to try their turn. We hereby constitute ourselves their advocate, and, in behalf of our worthy clients, venture to propose a method of dealing with the question, having greater promise of permanence than such as have hitherto adopted.

The cause of the constant changes in legislation which have hitherto taken place and the agitation to which they have given rise has been that there are sheep communities and dog communities, and as one or the other has interested itself in politics, the sheep or the dog has received the protection of the law. Our proposition is that each community shall determine for itself whether it will have a dog law or not. Let a stringent law be enacted, and let a provision be attached to it something similar to the one which we propose, and let the community in reference to tipping districts, so that each civil district shall have the privilege of determining by vote whether the dog law shall go into operation within its boundaries, and let that vote settle the matter for two years.

Now, let a stringent law be enacted, and let a provision be attached to it something similar to the one which we propose, and let the community in reference to tipping districts, so that each civil district shall have the privilege of determining by vote whether the dog law shall go into operation within its boundaries, and let that vote settle the matter for two years.

ENGLAND AND AFGHANISTAN.

Orders for Troops to Advance.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—This morning's Standard announces that no reply to the British ultimatum has been received from the Amir of Afghanistan, and orders have accordingly been sent to India for the troops to advance.

The Standard adds: "The Cabinet Council which was held yesterday afternoon after a protracted sitting till tomorrow, but the decision arrived at dispels all doubt. We are consequently engaged in a war with Afghanistan, which has been forced on us by Russian intrigue and the evil effects of our past policy."

A Lahore dispatch says the Government was preparing a proclamation, which was to be issued Wednesday (yesterday), showing that vigorous measures were unavoidable.

A dispatch from Thull says it is reported that the garrison of the first fortress of the Khuram valley is prepared to capitulate when summoned. The column is in splendid spirits and expects to reach the frontier in a few days.

The times in its leader says: "The ultimatum has been refused. The result, we believe, is that the issue has now been left in Lord Lytton's hands. We may expect to hear in a few hours what action he intends to take. He will probably order the Khyber and Khuram passes, and make some advance with the Quetta column."

A dispatch dated Peshawar, Nov. 20, says: "Traveling from Thull, yesterday, I passed the Khuram force advancing. Thirty miles of the road was covered with troops, elephants, camels and cattle. The Peshawar force is marching on Jammood. The Amir is again spreading the report that the Russians will defend Candahar."

The St. Louis Republican says: "The Republican party is resolved to have a majority in the Southern States. The people of these States are no less firmly resolved to keep the majority on the other side. They will not voluntarily surrender the Republican party. They will not, voluntarily, lend aid and comfort to the political organization which for ten years made them the prey of knaves and fools. They will not, voluntarily, put their necks in the old yoke, the hands of the old slave. The only way in which the South can be Republicanized is by a permanent garrison of Federal soldiers, and perhaps even a permanent military government in the long run. At any rate it is the only agency which promises the least shadow of success, and before Mr. Hayes's resignation he had better decide whether he will employ it—or risk the chances its use involves."

Boston Post: "Since the occasion has passed for Massachusetts Republicans to pursue a conciliatory policy toward Democrats in order to secure the election of Mr. Talbot, Southern outrages have loomed up in fearful proportion in the eyes of this country. All that can properly be said on the subject of funds upon the ballot-box is if the laws of the land have been trampled upon in South Carolina the courts are open for redress and punishment as well as here, Massachusetts and her sister States in Government in her own behalf, why should she for other people?"
